You don't necessarily need to present your work in the same order seen here!

----------	------------

Colophon + Title

Can be on single or multiple spreads. Often paired together, but not mandatory. Write your own colophon, or paraphrase from multiple book sources! Make it interesting and applicable! White space is your friend, but make even this mundane text interesting to read. No page numbers yet, but master page elements may begin to appear.

Table of Contents

Can be on single or multiple spreads. This needs to be designed and not just thrown in there! The textbook links offer many examples of creative TOCs. Dot leaders are a fundamental inclusion here, found in the Tabs Panel of InDesign. This spread may include acknowledgements to school, classmates, influences, artists, etc. Also, dedications may appear somewhere near the beginning of a book.

Bitmapped Letterforms

Most everyone did well with this! Showcase your work in a nice layout. Include both hand drawn and digital versions. Talk about how you designed your own font based on a deliberate pixelated heritage. Page numbering generally begins to be counted from here. (They need not appear on every page.)

International Fair

Contest posters may be laid out separately or together, as in a series. Brief description of PV relationship to International Fair design process, using same text. Design/technical challenges working to output two different sizes, (i.e. enough rez for big size); how campus community voted for winner, how poster corresponds to annual event, your chosen theme, etc.

Text Heavy Spread

You will need two pages to layout approximately 700 words. Use given text or copy/paste your own on subjects of typography (Wiki). Use entire pieces of literature; don't just truncate a sentence when you reach minimum requirement. Employ Baseline Grid in InDesign to create matrix-like relationship between all text elements.

Type Samples

Pictures you have taken yourself of type treatments both great and small that caught your eye as your awareness of type as an art form increased through the semester! This may include things wonderful or terrible, including 'type crimes.' (approx. 15 images is acceptable)

Quote Interpretation

These can be so beautiful! Take your time and make even something simple a celebration of typographic form! Use one page or a whole spread, your choice! Cite your source! Reproduce quote in plain text as design option or legibility necessity, depending on your bent.

Love Affair Font

It's a sample page of a font you love, showing representative range of size and style in a fanciful layout. Reminiscent of a time when print shops needed physical metal cast type in each size they used, sometimes creating broadsides to hang on the wall to showcase their capabilities. Content should have some appropriateness to typography, poetry, art, design, etc!

Off-Centre Poster, Postcard, Program Contest

Real event, not just a class assignment. Poster and postcard, displayed in proportion, is enough, or just the poster alone. Talk about collaboration between classes, challenges of design, how VPA faculty voted for design. May be grouped with other contests.

Coyote Oaks Wine Label

Show both your solutions, image and text, include the back. write something about it being an off-campus competition, the five finalist's designs all being retained for potential commercial use with subsequent harvests. The proprietor spoke to you directly and you interpreted her needs with a creative solution.

Long List/Calendar Grid

Show one or both, depending if you think it is strong enough to be included. some of you did very well with Long Lists, some not so much! Calendar Grids we haven't seen yet, so a judgement will need to be made: what to leave in, what to take out! Include a description. Make it make sense to an objective observer!

Back Cover Art

If cool, people will open the book. Design may wrap around from front cover or be separate. If printing, don't forget spine design.
